Business Women and Heart-Centered Women Unite: Building Friendships, Empowering Connections, & Growing Together.

HERA is a space where growth, both in life and business, happens naturally because we believe in the power of supporting each other. Here, there's no competition—only collaboration. Every woman has something unique to offer, and we know that when we share, we all rise.

Whether you're a businesswoman or simply here to connect, our strength lies in the fact that we're all in this together.

There's no such thing as exclusive rights to a sector or niche; instead, we celebrate diverse talents and viewpoints, knowing that the more we share and collaborate, the more we grow.

This is the kind of space where you don't just build a business—you build relationships, friendships, and a future that's stronger together.

We all need cool networking groups—not just for business but for connection, support, and inspiration. Real, authentic connections are at the heart of success in both our personal and professional lives.

Growth in life and business happens when we lean on each other—no competition, no exclusive rights. Just real, authentic support. Because when we rise together, there's no limit to what we can achieve.

- Your commitment matters.

We've created the space for you, and it's up to you to step in.

Commit to joining in. To show up, connect, and be a part of this community—because when you do, you'll unlock opportunities and relationships that can shape your life and business in ways you never imagined.

- Cheer yourself and your fellow members on.
- Share your ideas, your inspiration, your business, and your services.
- Book a Pow Wow, join a gathering, or host an event.
- Welcome every member with love and encouragement, making them feel seen and valued.

Be proud to belong to this unique sisterhood.

The Facebook Private Members Only page is a great space to share, learn, and engage with others in real time. Here, we cultivate a space for open dialogue, sharing wins, challenges, and everything in between.

Visit our website to book events, see the directory, check out the gallery, and explore our resources and guides. Everything you need to thrive is right at your fingertips.

"In HERA, we're not just members – we're partners in growth, weaving a community that's built on collaboration, trust, and a shared vision. Here, we rise together."

Commit to joining in—because what you put in, you get back, multiplied.
